

Brussels Press Conference Daniel Estulin

Ladies and gentlemen,

We are now in a position to change history. I finally believe that mankind has a future. A once demoralised population with no moral purpose is coming out of their prolonged slumber. In this general awakening, people are beginning to ask the right questions. It's no longer, "what will I get out of it?" but rather "What's right?" It's an international phenomenon of response and reaction to an overly felt perception that the entire world is doomed to catastrophe, unless we the people do something about it.

I have written a book on the subject of the Bilderberg Group. This book, in a way, has become the catalyst for a movement around the world. Now, we don't have a lot of time, so I would like to explain to you what Bilderberg is and why it must be stopped.

In the world of international finance, there are those who steer the events and those who react to the events. While the latter are better known, greater in numbers, and seemingly more powerful, the true power rests with the former. At the centre of the global financial system are the financial oligarchy today represented by the Bilderberg group.

Bilderberg organization is dynamic, in that it changes with the times, absorbs and creates new parts while excreting the remains of the decaying parts. Members come and go, but the system itself has not changed. It is a self-perpetuating system, a virtual spider web of interlocked financial, political, economic and industry interests.

Now, Bilderberg isn't a secret society. It is not an evil, all-seeing eye. There is no conspiracy even though a lot of people with their infantile fantasies see it as such. No group of people, and I don't care how powerful they are, sit around the table in dark room, holding hands, staring at a crystal ball, planning the world's future.

It's a meeting of people who represent a certain ideology.

Not OWG or NWO as too many people mistakenly believe. Rather, the ideology is of a ONE WORLD COMPANY LIMITED. Back in 1968, at a Bilderberg meeting in Canada, George Ball, the then Under-secretary for Economic Affairs with JFK and Johnson said: "Where does one find a legitimate base for the power of corporate management to make decisions that can profoundly affect the economic life of nations to whose governments they have only limited responsibility?"

The idea behind each and every Bilderberg meeting is to create what they themselves call THE ARISTOCRACY OF PURPOSE between European and North American elites on the best way to manage the planet. In other words, the creation of a global network of giant cartels, more powerful than any nation on Earth, destined to control the necessities of life of the rest of humanity, obviously from their vantage point, for our own good and in our benefit – THE GREAT UNWASHED AS THEY CALL US.

Now, the reason people don't believe in Bilderberg and other organisations working together exercising such control on the world stage is that theirs is a Cartesian fantasy world, in which the isolated intentions of some individuals, NOT the dynamics of social processes shape the course of history as the movement of evolving ideas and themes over successive generations and even centuries.

Bilderberg is a medium of bringing together financial institutions which are the world's most powerful and most predatory financial interests. And at this time, it is that combination which is the worst enemy of humanity.

We can all congratulate ourselves in that today, Bilderberg has become the mainstay of corporate media. Not because corporate media has suddenly remembered their responsibility to us, but because we the people, have forced them into this uncomfortable position by becoming very aware that Presidents and Prime Ministers and your little shrinking Queens and Kings are puppets of powerful forces working from behind the scenes.

Something has happened to us, the people in the midst of this general economic collapse. People at large are gripped by something they don't always understand. But, it compels them to act in a certain way, in their own interest. That's what they are doing in Greece. That's what they are doing in Spain, in the United States. It's called the anthropic principle. It's like a tidal movement came upon us and washed our fears away. As people realise that their existence is threatened, they have lost their fear, and Bilderberg and others sense it.

Perhaps that's why at a recent Council on Foreign Relations speech in Montreal, Zbigniew Brzezinski, one of the founders of the TC, warned that a "global political awakening," in combination with infighting amongst the elite, was threatening to derail the move towards a one world government.

You see people at this table come from very different ideological and political backgrounds. What unites us, however, is that we are all patriots. And those who oppose us, those who work for secret societies, who have sold their nations out for a pound of flesh, are traitors. Not only traitors of their people and nations, but of humanity as a whole.

Now, the subject of this Press Conference is Bilderberg: Towards One World Company Ltd.

About six and a half centuries ago, the economy of Europe had collapsed into what is known as Europe's "New Dark Age," the greatest economic and demographic collapse of Europe since the collapse of the Roman Empire. Then, in the middle of the 14C, much of the power of the oligarchy abruptly disintegrated. This disintegration erupted as the sudden, chain-reaction collapse of the worst financial bubble of debt speculation in history, until now, that is, when the banking houses of Bardi and Peruzzi went under. This disintegration and collapse of the Lombard debt bubble caused a collapse in the power among the oligarchical families.

What does it have to do with Bilderberg?

Modern history superseded medieval history at that moment that the institutions which singularly distinguish modern from medieval history were put into place. That occurred back in 1439 at the Council of Florence. What were those new institutions?

- 1) The conception of the modern nation state republics under the government of natural law.
- 2) The central role of the fostering of scientific and technological progress as the mandate given to the republic.

These two ideals represent a crucial argument: their existence as institution, in any part of Europe, changed everything in all of Europe because these institutional changes increased the rate of development of per-capita and per-square kilometre of mankind over nature. So, no nation could afford not to progress, not to develop for the fear of being left hopelessly behind.

The first success occurred under France's Louis XI, who doubled the per-capita income of France, and defeated all of France's enemies. Louis XI success sparked a chain reaction of efforts to establish a nation-state on this model in Henry VII's England and elsewhere.

Another key idea to come out of Council of Florence which was later implemented in the United States is a universal principle of GENERAL WELFARE, on which all modern civilised society is based.

Now, welfare does not mean a useless bum sitting on the couch, eating a pizza, slobbering all over himself, watching television, while he is waiting for an unemployment check to arrive.

It is a question of immortality. What's the intention of the existence of man, and government? It's to provide for the welfare, of future generations of mankind. To assure our survival as the species. The principle of the General Welfare, as expressed in summation in the preamble of the Federal Constitution of the United States, is the fundamental law.

So, how is it related to today? These people want an Empire. That's what globalization is. And too many people believe that in order to have an Empire, you need money. You have all heard of the phrase – THE MONEY ELITE. But money, is not a determinant of wealth and the economy. Money does not make the world go around. Money has no intrinsic value.

Human mind affects the development of the planet. This is how mankind is measured. This is the true meaning of IMMORTALITY. What separates us from animals is our ability to discover universal physical principles. It allows us to innovate, which subsequently improves the lives of people by increasing the power of man over nature.

You see, they are destroying the world economy on purpose. This isn't the first time either. This was done in the 14th century New Dark Age: 30% of the population wiped out.

Empire=dumb people down. They want to destroy the creative powers of reason.

PROJECT 1980S CFR, promoting controlled disintegration of the world economy.

BILDERBERG 1995. Demand destruction. How? By destroying the world economy on purpose.

GREAT DEPRESSION – TRANSFER OF WEALTH. The Great Depression was not an event that wiped out U.S. capitalists. It was an event that made the rich even richer by transferring the wealth of the people into the hands of the already wealthy. That's how Bank of America made their billions through real estate foreclosures from 1929-37. Don't believe for a minute that the richest of the rich will be hurt by the coming collapse. The only ones hurt will be you and me.

Look at Greece. What they are trying to do is blow up the system by, instead of allowing Greece to reorganise its money system, they are imposing that Greece be used, that the Greek debt be bailed out by Europe. But, that debt is worthless. It's garbage, it's monopoly money. So, asking Europe, which is going through its own financial meltdown, to absorb an unpayable debt, which the Greeks, by the way, can NEVER repay, means you are going to FOR SURE, destroy Europe. And, it is being done on purpose, because nobody, not even Barroso, who with all due respect to him is absolutly intellectually challenged or Trichet are that stupid.

Let's get rid of the bureaucracy in Brussels. Let's fire them all. They are bums. They are useless. These people have never done anything useful in their lives. Get rid of Barroso. He failed history in high school. Get rid of the "wet rag," Van Rompewey not because he is useless but because he is evil and very dangerous. It's not the first time that an unloved, short, evil little man has gnawed his way into the bowels of power.

You see, it is a question of leadership and a question of immortality. All of the leaders of society, especially in times of crisis, are leaders because they measure up to some approximation of that standard. People such as Barroso, Van Rompewey, EU President Jean Claude Juncker, Dominique Strauss-Kahn, the managing director of the IMF can hardly be considered leaders. In fact, they can hardly be considered humans, from the perspective of human representing A GREATER GOOD OF HUMANITY.

Now, what I am talking about is not a scientific problem or economic question, but rather a morality question. A question of immortality. Do we as nation states, as people of the Planet believe in the future of mankind? And what kind of future will we have 100 or 200 years in the future. What about 10,000 years from now? Do we have a right to dream? If we have a sense of purpose for being here, then the bad guys can't win.

For example, we have been told that euro must be saved. That euro's failure will bring down the European Union. That's a lie. Instead of a weak, dysfunctional European monetary union, we go back to being independent nation state republics – Europe of the Fatherlands.

Cultural diversity is not only humanity's hallmark of progress, but an insurance policy against extinction as a species. Once born, a nation state concept never dies; it only waits for courageous and sane human beings to come to its defence, to perfect the concept. So therefore, we should be a fraternity of nations, of sovereign nations—united by a common purpose for humanity. Until we can bring mankind into the Age of Reason, history will be shaped in actuality, not by the wills of masses of humanity, but by the mere handfuls who, for purposes of good or evil, steer the fate of mankind generally as herds of cows are steered to and from the pasture—and, occasionally, also to the slaughter-house.
